THE BLUE GRASS CARRIAGE SHOP,

West William St., Half a Square from Main.

We are comparably strangers in a new location, but a bran new shop, with facilities to construct anything on wheels from a wheelbarrow to a carriage. And while we make a specialty of jobs to order, will confine ourselves for the present to repairing, general blacksmith and wood work, trimming, painting, and overhauling old work. We are not agents for any shyster or machine work. Mr. Gregor is an experienced shoer, having years of practice in this most important line in the cities of Chicago and Dubuque, Iowa. We will convince you that a horse shoer is born, not made, if you will take the trouble to call just once. We came to this section to remain in spite of high water and hard times, and being unknown have nothing more to commend our claims to you for patronage than our knowledge of mechanism, and we trust an appreciative and indulgent public. We have ample room for farmers' teams and rigs while in the city, and will make it to their especial interest to call on us for anything in our line. With a guarantee of our work, or money refunded, and a solemn promise of our prices being in accordance with the times and not with custom, we ask you to look for the big sign of the Blue Grass Carriage Shop, and if you mean business come once, and we have no fears that our magnetism will not draw you thereafter.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession Indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

FOOD AND EXERCISE.

What Should Form the Diet of Workers and Non-Workers.

Those who have little time for exercise and are compelled to live chiefly within doors must endeavor to secure, or should have secured for them as far as possible by employers, by way of compensation, a regular supply of fresh air, without draughts, an atmosphere as free from dust and other impurities as can be obtained, with a good supply of light, and some artificial warmth when needed. These necessities granted, cereal foods, such as well-made bread in variety, and vegetable produce, including fruits, should form a great part of the diet consumed, with a fair addition of eggs and milk if no meat is taken, and little of other animal food than fish. On such a dietary, and without alcoholic stimulants, thousands of such workers as I have briefly indicated may enjoy, with very little exercise, far better health and more strength than at present they experience on meat and heavy puddings, beer, baker's bread and cheese. Of course there are workers who belong to neither of the two extreme classes indicated, and whose habits can not be described as sedentary, but who occupy a middle place between the two. For such some corresponding modification of the dietary is naturally appropriate. But it is a vulgar error to regard meat in any form as necessary to life; if for any it is necessary, it is for the hard-working outdoor laborers, and for these a certain proportion is no doubt desirable. Animal flesh is useful, also, as a concentrated form of nutriment, valuable for its portability, and for the small space it occupies in the stomach—unrivaled in certain circumstances. Like every other description of food, it is highly useful in its place, but is by no means necessary for a large proportion of the population. To many it has become partially desirable only by the force of habit and because their digestive organs have thus been trained to deal with it, and at first resent a change. But this being gradually made, adaptation takes place, and the individual who has consumed two or three meat meals daily with some little discomfort, chiefly from being often indisposed to make active exertions, becomes, after sufficient time has elapsed, stronger, lighter and happier, as well as better tempered and manifestly healthier, on the more delicate dietary sketched. People in general have very inadequate ideas of the great power of habit alone in forming what they believe to be innate personal peculiarities, or in creating conditions which are apparently part of a constitutional necessity, laws of their nature, and essential to their existence. Many of these peculiarities are solely due to habit—that is, to long continuance in a routine of action, adopted, it may be, without motive or design; and people are apt to forget that if a routine of precisely opposite character had been adopted precisely opposite conditions would have been established, and opposite peculiarities would have become dominant, as their contraries are now. Alterations in the dietary, especially of elderly persons, should be made gradually and with caution. This condition fulfilled, a considerable change may be effected with satisfactory results, when circumstances render it necessary. To revert once more to the question of flesh eating, it should be remarked that it appears to be by no means a natural taste with the young. Few children like that part of the meal which consists of meat, but prefer the pudding, the fruit, the vegetables, if well dressed, which, unhappily, is not often the case. Many children manifest great repugnance to meat at first, and are coaxed and even scolded by anxious mothers until the habit of eating it is acquired. Adopting the insular creed, which regards beef and mutton as necessary to health and strength, the mother often suffers from groundless forebodings about the future of a child who rejects flesh and manifests what is regarded as an unfortunate partiality for bread and butter and pudding. Nevertheless, I am satisfied, if the children followed their own instinct in that matter, the result would be a gain in more ways than one. Certainly, if meat did not appear in the nursery until the children sent for it, it would be rarely seen there, and the young ones would, as a rule, thrive on milk and eggs, with the varied produce of the vegetable kingdom.—Sir Henry Thompson, in Nineteenth Century.

SPECULATION.

The Danger of a Premature Advance in the Price of Farm Products.

Are not Americans too mercurial in their temperament? We discount rumors of war with as much apparent confidence as reliable evidence of a short crop. It ought to be evident if we get up a corner on wheat or other grain, and push the price up too high, we prevent exportation—the very basis of the rise. Perhaps we have not sufficiently considered the fact that Europe's supply is mostly already laid in to harvest time—especially our harvest time—and, with our very large surplus, how is it to be held at a very high rate till the new harvest is determined?

In the event of war only Russia's surplus is cut off. That is only a drop in the bucket to our surplus, and will hardly be felt. England, on a pinch, could get along to harvest without any new shipments from this country. Yet, if prices are not too suddenly pushed, the demand would likely become brisk at a reasonable advance. It is not reasonable to suppose that England will buy our wheat here at a dollar without knowing the real prospect of the future harvest, so close at hand.

But let us look at the prospect to our friends, the producers. We are happy to say that their present prospect is not so doubtful. Every push up of the wheat market by the grain gamblers means the present increase of money in the farmers' pockets. It will take the wheat out of their hands and load it upon the speculators. Well, we do not feel a consuming anxiety on the speculators' account, and possibly the wheat farmer may be so much ahead; but all things are eyed up in the end, and too reckless a push in prices may lose us a market for so much wheat.—Breeders' Gazette.

THE FAIRY'S DREAM

—OF—

CHEAP CHARLEY.

THERE'S a legend in the city
And the country, often told
How the ravages of Time
Caused the clothing to grow old.

Then the fairies set to thinking
How the clothing they could mend,
Or find some Merchant Tailor
On whom they could depend.

There was Pat from Emerald Island,
But his stitches wouldn't hold;
Then came the smooth faced Yankee,
Who to cheat made awful bold.

The man from Chinee he no likee,
And his seamee muchee bad;
And blitchee come to pieces,
Make manee muchee mad.

Then the fairies waved their wand
On the German Fatherland,
And brought forth a benefactor
Known as Charles, the Woollen Factor.

They bade him cross the ocean,
On free soil his trade to ply,
And he's known from Maine to Utah
As the man who cannot lie.

CHEAP CHARLEY is his cognomen
A name that's pleasing to the ears,
And when he sees a man in tatters
His honest heart dissolves in tears.

Fine Suits he sells at lowest figures;
Hats and Caps, with Ties to match.
You'll find profit, gentle stranger,
If you lift his welcome latch.

Cheap Charley's stock is always largest
And best selected in the town;
It makes the other dealers scary,
Causing many an angry frown.

But he likes to please the people,
And for rivals little cares;
Competition makes him happy,
While he sells a suit that wears.

Go and look his stock all over,
Note its make, and fit and style;
Compared with others you have notic'd
It will surely make you smile.

On the corner of Old Square and Main street,
You the nicest store will see
Where you are treated with politeness
By Cheap Charley and all his employes.

Write your girl about our harness—
How it fits you like a glove;
And she'll answer: Oh, come quickly
Dearest Charley, sweetest love!

Oh, that name of magic sweetness,
Chawls, some call it who are Wylde,
While the sun flowers nod in silence
And the zephyrs whisper mild.

But Cheap Charley is the hero
Of more suits than those of men;
He tries them on the lawyer
Without judge or jurymen.

The judge wears his ermine,
And the witnesses the coats;
The jury scan the fabrics
While they cast the clearing votes.

Talk about your clothing stores
Cheap Charley can't be beat;
He'll cover up your nakedness!
And make you look so sweet.

The cops will never stop you,
Or show undue surprise;
They'll pass you by as gentlemen
And shut their wondering eyes.

Then go to Charley's if you'd thrive,
And win the world's esteem;
An ill-clad man is out of luck,
And always looks so mean.

That people shun him on the street,
And pass him by unknown,
While mentally they calculate
He is an awkward clown.

Then write your girl a letter,
And tell her you have found
Cheap Charley has a wedding suit
Throughout the world renowned.

To name the day, the time and place
Those clothes shall first appear;
While Cheap Charley's name shall always be,
A household word most dear.

A THEATRICAL company recently played "Rip Van Winkle" in a town that wants the Soldiers' Home. When "Rip" awoke from his twenty years' sleep he looked around and said, "Hasn't that Soldiers' Home been located yet?"

CONGRESSMAN J. G. CANNON, a member of the Holman committee, which has been making a tour of the Indian agencies, is of the opinion that the Indians cannot long retain possession of all the Indian Territory, which is capable of maintaining more than ten times its present population if brought under that degree of cultivation of which it is susceptible.

THE Dakota State Canvassing Board, to canvass the votes of the election of November 3, met Saturday. Total votes cast, 31,754; for State Constitution 25,132, against 6,522; for temporary capital, Pierre 10,574, Huron 12,695; for prohibition 15,552, against 15,218; for minority representation 16,640, against 11,256.

THE Mugwumps have at least succeeded in concentrating upon themselves the harmonious and cordial dislike of both Democrats and Republicans; and that must be considered a point gained in the matter of redeeming the country from the evils of partisan rancor and prejudice. Manifestly if all parties can be persuaded to condemn the same things, they may next be induced to approve the same things, and then there will be nothing left to wrangle about.

THE question, Does Prohibition prohibit? has been revived by recent official statistics. The United States Internal Revenue Commissioner's report, just made public, shows that Iowa has 3,549 retail liquor-dealers, a slight falling off from last year, when the number was 3,989; but in Kansas there has been an increase of the retail liquor-dealers from 1,948 to 2,086. In Maine there has also been an increase from 974 to 1,014. Of browers there are 100 in Iowa and 11 in Kansas; of retail dealers in malt liquors only there are 229 in Iowa, 65 in Kansas and 80 in Maine. Illinois has 9,504 retail liquor-dealers, Indiana 5,915, Michigan 6,098 and Wisconsin 5,982.

PRESIDENT GREVY of France cannot, it is said, be re-elected. He is an old man, weak physically, but keen after his rents, and clear-headed. He has lost prestige because he has not been a man among men and has no human weakness to speak of save the love of money. He is the Gallic Tilden.

IN his memoirs Gen. Grant says of his famous exploit, during the Mexican War, of taking a howitzer into the belfry of a church:

This took us over several ditches, breast deep in water and grown up with water-plants. These ditches, however, were not over eight or ten feet in width. The howitzer was taken to pieces and carried by the men to its destination. When I knocked for admission a priest came to the door, who, while extremely polite, declined to admit us. I explained to him that he might save property by opening the door, and he certainly would save himself from becoming a prisoner for a time at least; and, besides, I intended to enter, whether he consented or not. He began to see his duty in the same light that I did, and opened the door, though he did not look as if it gave him special pleasure to do so. The gun was carried to the belfry and put together. We were not more than 200 or 300 yards from San Cosme. The shots from our little gun dropped in upon the enemy and created great confusion. Why they did not send out a small party and capture us I do not know. We had no infantry or other defenses besides our one gun. The effect of this gun upon the troops about the gates of the city was so marked that General Worth saw it from his position. He was so pleased that he sent a staff officer—Lieutenant Pemberton, later Lieutenant-General commanding the defenses of Vicksburg—to bring me to him.

Secretary Bayard's Growing Unpopularity.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—A number of leading Democrats have urged upon the President the necessity of making a change in his Cabinet so far as the Department of State is concerned. A prominent New York Democrat had one or two conversations with the President on the subject last week. He said to the President that the burden of the criticism of his administration had been occasioned by Mr. Bayard's appointments, and that his continued presence in the Cabinet would do more to render the Administration unpopular and unsuccessful than any other one thing. This gentleman called the President's attention to the fact that Mr. Bayard had willfully and needlessly gotten out with all of his old Senatorial friends, so that their support there could not be relied upon and that for anything relating to a foreign policy it was foreordained to failure from the fact of Mr. Bayard's being in the State Department. This gentleman further said that no one questioned Mr. Bayard's honesty or the fact that he was well-meaning. His lack of judgment, however, was so great and he was so headstrong that he could not be considered in any sense an adviser fit to be admitted to the President's counsels. This gentleman has since said that the President gave great attention to what he said and very plainly intimated that he would not be unwilling to get rid of Mr. Bayard, if he could do it in a way that would not reflect too much upon the Secretary. He was not overanxious to have him in the Cabinet in the first place. He had a great respect and regard for him, but he was willing to acknowledge that the Secretary had caused him more trouble than any other member of his Cabinet. This visiting Democrat is of the opinion that Mr. Bayard will ultimately be dropped from the Cabinet. He does not think that there will be any hurry about it. Mr. Bayard may be given a chance to get back to the Senate as Mr. Saulsbury's successor. It is possible that he may be sent abroad to one of the missions. Phelps could be recalled without endangering Vermont with the Democracy. It is not customary to expect a Cabinet officer to go abroad during his term to any other place except England. The people of Delaware say Mr. Bayard could not be elected to the Senate now if he wanted to, even if the election of Saulsbury's successor was at hand. He has lost his popularity in that State with his local people as much as he has with the national.

The American Exhibition to Be Held in London.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Mr. John R. Whiteley, of London, Director-General of the American Exhibition to be held in London in 1886, and Mr. John Gilmore Speed, of New York, Secretary of the Exhibition, arrived here yesterday. Mr. Whiteley made a report to the President of the work accomplished, and assured him that the success of the Exhibition, as a complete and thorough exposition of the arts, inventions, manufactures, products and resources of the United States was, now, happily, beyond doubt. The President expressed his entire sympathy with the object of the exhibition, and volunteered assistance in every and all ways which would be proper and becoming. Mr. Whiteley informed the President that he had a very small favor to ask, namely, that the President should open the exhibition by electricity on the first of May next. To this request the President readily assented. Mr. Whiteley and Mr. Speed went to New York last night. The former will sail for England in the Oregon on Saturday.

Supreme Court Decisions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Under a decision of the United States Supreme Court yesterday morning, neither a police officer nor a private citizen can lawfully arrest a deserter from the United States army without a warrant or order of military authority. The court yesterday amended its rules so that models, diagrams and exhibits of material forming part of the evidence taken in the court below in any case pending before the United States Supreme Court on writ of error or appeal must be placed in the custody of this court one month before the case is submitted, and be removed within one month after the case is decided, or take the chances of being destroyed or otherwise disposed of.

A Silver Drug.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Reports received at the Treasury Department indicate that the point where no more silver can be put in circulation has been reached, and a general influx of silver at the Treasury is expected before the first of the month. The dollars are now being sent in from the Eastern centers, and the demand is getting less for them in the more remote points. At the present time the Government holds $75,000,000 that can not be floated, and the sum is expected to steadily increase.

Complying With the President's Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Information received at the Interior Department is to the effect that the cattlemen in the Western Territories are, generally speaking, obeying the President's proclamation, and removing the fences inclosing public lands. One man in Wyoming has not complied with the proclamation, however, and the Attorney-General has been requested to institute suit against him.

The Meeting of Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Two weeks from yesterday the Forty-ninth Congress will convene. Nearly all the employes have been ordered on duty, and the respective chambers have been thoroughly cleansed and put in order. The House floor has been newly carpeted. The desks have all been revarnished, and the gildings and brass works repolished. The coat rooms have been painted in light tints and handsomely carpeted with heavy rugs. The work of renovating has been general throughout the building, and everything now looks fresh and clean.

Ewing Will Resign.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—It is said upon good authority that Ephraim Ewing, the brother-in-law of Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, who was appointed Consul-General to Mexico, will resign on account of bad health. The Missouri delegation will claim the right to name his successor.

The Court of Alabama Claims.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—The Court of Commissioners of Alabama Claims yesterday issued an order requiring that all motions for rehearings and the introduction of further evidence be presented on or before Wednesday, December 2d next. By the date mentioned the court expects to have its docket cleared of all cases.

Precautionary.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Secretary Manning has ordered the Marine Hospital Inspectors on the Canadian frontier to vaccinate employes of the Railway Mail Service and fumigate mails brought across the border.

On Familiar Ground.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 24.—Among those who visited the Executive Mansion yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Grant, Jr. When their presence was made known to the President, he went into the Green Room, where the couple had stopped, and greeted them very cordially.

What will Surely Do It.

One's hair begins to fall out from many causes. The important question is: What is sure to make it grow in again? According to the testimony of thousands, Parker's Hair Balsam will do it. It quickly covers bald spots, restores the original color when the hair is grey or faded, eradicates dandruff, and causes the scalp to feel cool and well. It is not a dye, not greasy, highly perfumed, safe. Never disappoints those who require a nice, reliable dressing.

THE BRAZILIAN COUNTERFEITERS

Lucius A. and Joseph H. White Before the United States District Court.

ST. LOUIS, MO., November 24.—The case of Lucius A. White, the counterfeiter of Brazilian treasury notes, was called in the United States District Court at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. District Attorney Bliss appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Joseph G. Lodge conducted the defense. White was brought into court in the custody of a United States Marshal. He appeared perfectly self-possessed and had but little to say, even to his counsel. By previous agreement between the attorneys on both sides White consented to entering a plea of guilty on the three indictments against him for forgery of foreign securities subject to the decision of the point as to the constitutionality of the law of March, 1884, under which the indictments were found; the point to be raised by a motion in arrest of judgment at a subsequent sitting of the court. By his action White virtually admits the forgery of the securities, and rests his defense entirely upon the law in the case.

Lucius A. White was arrested at the Hotel Moser in the early part of last September, charged with forging Brazilian securities, on information furnished by a leading local lithographing firm. White had ordered 3,000 impressions of a Brazilian Treasury note at the establishment which, as he represented, were to be used as cigar labels. His brother, Joseph H. White, had ordered a large number of labels in New Orleans, which it was intended to paste on the back of the other labels, thereby making a complete counterfeit. The lithographing firm becoming suspicious of the character of the work, informed the United States authorities, and the arrest of the White brothers followed.

Joseph White, the brother of Lucius A. White, was brought to the Jail at eleven o'clock this morning by Deputy United States Marshal Wheeler. He is a larger edition of Lucius, being tall and portly, and evidently possessed of much more manhood than the younger one, whose appearance and manner at once create a very unfavorable impression. After the conviction of Lucius a reporter called at the Jail and sent word to the older brother that he would like to have a few minutes' chat with him. In a few moments a message came back to the effect that the prisoner declined to have anything to say to anybody but his lawyer or the District Attorney. He was arraigned in the United States District Court yesterday afternoon. He entered a plea of not guilty. His attorneys entered a demurrer alleging informality of indictment and want of jurisdiction, but owing to the fact that they were not attorneys of record in this court, the demurrer was ignored. The case will be tried at the March term of the United States Circuit Court.

Providing for Sterling.

NEW YORK, November 23.—A special to the Evening Post, from Albany says Governor Hill declines to-day to discuss the features of his appointment of Sterling to be a Port Warden. He said there was nothing in the case calling for comment as he could see. There was a vacancy in the office, and he had appointed a man whom he thought competent. As the appointment is subject to confirmation by the State Senate, it does not fall under the civil service statute. Governor Hill says that if the Senate does not confirm Sterling, he will continue to occupy the office. Mr. Leavycraft's time being out, this is not a case of suspending an officer during a recess of the State Senate, and therefore the late incumbent will not be entitled to resume his duties in case of the refusal of the Senate to confirm Sterling. This view of the case would leave Sterling secure in his new position during the term of Governor Hill, unless he should hereafter nominate some other man whom the Senate would confirm.

A Dangerous Game—Playing the Witch Among Fools.

ST. PAUL, MINN., November 23.—Mary Hartell, of Westford, Wis., has filed a complaint against a neighbor for attempting to kill her by sorcery, and the defendant has been held for trial. The complaint claims, in her sincerity, that the woman is a witch, and attributes the hog cholera prevailing in that section to her animosity. Two years ago this woman was in similar trouble in an adjoining county. The people thought that their bad crops and diseases among the cattle was caused by her incantations, and they became so wrought up that they attempted her life.

LIFE IN A TENEMENT.

Horrors of the Habitations of the Poor in the Wealthy Metropolis.

A Miserable Couple Who Occupied Three Coal Bins in a Dark and Musty Cellar

With Vermin For Their Sole Companions--Horrible Death of the Woman.

NEW YORK, November 24.—The fire which the tenants of the packed rickety building at 545 Grand street have been awaiting, came at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. Though the house was crowded with women and children, there were but two men present at the time. The fire broke out in the cellar, where an old man and woman had been living for a year. As soon as the smoke was noticed the men started down the narrow steps. Groping their way through the dark as quickly as they could, they reached the cellar. Sitting on a chair in the rear portion of the underground cavern was Margaret Maguire, with the clothes burned from her body and the charred shoes sticking to her feet. There was no water near, but the men quickly pulled off their coats and extinguished the flames as best they could. By the time the firemen had arrived, and the woman was carried up to the street, the hair was burned completely from her head, and as she was lifted into the ambulance her flesh dropped off in flakes. She was taken at once to the Governeur Hospital, where the doctors said she could not live. The tenants say that a year ago Mrs. Annie Mallison, who occupies the front floor and keeps a cigar store in the front, hired Margaret Maguire, who is forty years of age and goes out washing and scrubbing for a living, to do scrubbing and cleaning for her, and for pay she gave her and her husband, John Maguire, three coal bins in the rear of the cellar for their apartments. The size of the largest of these compartments is about eight by ten feet. In this room, after the fire was put out, there were an old rust-eaten stove, some old pots and pans, two old chairs and a broken-down table and some old picture frames. The floor of this place has been formed by a collection of ashes, and the only ray of light or ventilation comes from a small iron grating which is in the yard above. The place was a rendezvous for cats, which Mrs. Mahison kept in a great number. They were her only pets. At night they prowled about the halls, and stole a living from the neighbors. The cellar is full of dump vapors, rats and vermin. To the right of this main compartment is a smaller room, two sides of which are brick and the other two sides are formed of pieces of old boxes, which yesterday were charred to coals by the flames. In this place stands an old bedstead on which is an old straw mattress, filled with vermin, and some pieces of filthy, water-soaked rag carpet. In the third room or bin was a bundle of straw and rags, the odor of which was sickening. Down in this pit have the wretched beings lived for a year. They both drank heavily and many are the quarrels and fights reported, to have taken place there. There are six families in the house, and yesterday they were unanimous in their condemnation of the woman whose inhumanity permitted those people to live in such a hole. Mrs. Devine, as she stood in the center of a group of the female tenants said:

"We have been afraid to go to bed at night lest these people in the cellar in one of their drunken broils should set the house afire and burn us alive. We threatened to make complaint time and again to Mr. Willis, the agent, who has an office at 5 Mangin street, against Mrs. Malison for keeping these people there, but we did not want to have trouble with our neighbors, and so it has run along, though we were in danger of our lives every night."

In this statement the group concurred. Many of them had never been down into the cellar, and did not know of the wretchedness and squalor in which the Maguire family lived until after the fire, when, for the first time, they saw its horrors. Frequent inquiries were made for Mrs. Malison, but her apartments were securely fastened, and she either would not be seen or had left the house very suddenly. In fifteen minutes from the time Mrs. Maguire was taken to the street she was lying on a cot in the female ward on the third floor of the hospital, surrounded by doctors and the nurses, who were using every appliance known to ease her pain. She was unconscious. Father Gleason, of St. Mary's Church, was at the hospital soon after the arrival of the woman and administered the last rites of the church. To him she said her name was Margaret Maguire, but to the people in the house where she lived she was known by the name of Nixon. Later in the evening a man called at the hospital, and said he was her husband, and that his name was John Nixon, and demanded that he be allowed to go to where the patient was. As he was intoxicated, Bennett, the steward, told him to come in the morning. Soon after Mrs. Maguire was taken to the hospital she became unconscious and remained in that condition until she died, at fifteen minutes past eleven o'clock.

THE TENEMENT FIRE.

Henry Kohut Charged With Arson and Murder.

NEW YORK, November 24.—Henry Kohut, the Bohemian, who is accused of setting fire to the tenement in East Sixty-fourth street yesterday morning, has been formally charged with arson and murder, the police having obtained evidence enough to warrant such a charge. The dead bodies of Mrs. Mary Falka and her two children have been removed to the station-house, and the Coroner summoned to hold an inquest. Kohut, it is believed, set the place on fire in order to recover a heavy insurance that he held on his furniture. This was insured for $900, while it was worth barely $75. Anton Seitz, a tenant in the house destroyed, describes the fire as follows:

"I was awakened by a cry of fire soon after one o'clock. Running out on the fire escape I saw that Kohut's room adjoining mine was ablaze. The bed was empty. No one was in the room. In front of the stove on the floor was a full quart oil-can upset and smashed. The lamp was upset lying on the table. The fire was on the floor. I pushed open the window and, running back to my room, got a pail of water and threw it on the fire. I fetched four pails of water and put the fire out. There was a very strong smell of benzine in the room. When I had put out the fire I opened the door to the hallway to get out that way. Outside the stairs and hall were ablaze. The wainscotting and the floor were all in a blaze. There was no getting down that way, and I ran back to my room in the other building by way of the fire escape and down to the street crying "Fire." As I reached the sidewalk I saw Kohut coming out of his own house with his coat on his arm. The other tenants were waking up then and beginning to climb down the fire escape."

Seitz's testimony was corroborated by young Boll in all its main features.

The Congressional Gun Foundry and Armor Plate Commission.

PITTSBURGH, PA., November 24.—It was one of Pittsburgh's most disagreeable days that greeted the Congressional Gun Foundry and Armor Plate Commission, as they, accompanied by a large delegation of members of the Chamber of Commerce and prominent business men left the Monongahela House on a tour of the iron and steel manufactories of this vicinity. The entire day and late into the evening was thus occupied. The Congressional visitors were pronounced in their admiration of the facilities presented, especially as regards the wonderful effect of natural gas as fuel, when compared with coal. Mr. Randall could scarcely credit the reply of Calvin Wells in response to a question as to the savings by the use of natural gas. He was told that the relative saving will approximate fifty per cent., taking into consideration the improved character of the product and the reduction in waste. Mr. Coutts was asked what the prospect might be for Pittsburgh getting the gun foundry and armor plate contract. He said that it depended upon the action of Congress, but thought the marvelous facilities possessed by Pittsburgh, the improved character of the steel product, and it being remote from the possibility of attack by a foreign navy, would give her a prestige which could not but prove patent in influencing Congress. The Commission leaves the city early this morning, stopping at the Cambria Iron-works, at Johnstown, the Stanton Iron-works, at Harrisburg, and thence to Washington.

Probable Resumption.

CHICAGO, ILL., November 24.—A morning paper says that it is stated on good authority, in and about South Chicago and Cummings, that the works of the Calumet Iron and Steel Company will shortly resume operations. The information states that preparations have been going on for the past two weeks at the works looking toward a resumption in one, if not all of the departments. It is not expected, however, that the company will pay the card rates demanded by the Nailers' Union, which was fixed at twenty-one cents a keg. The mills have been idle since June 1st, nearly six months. Mr. D. C. Bradley, Vice-President of the company, stated to a reporter that he wished very much to see the mills resume. As to the prospect, he stated that the matter rested, as it has for some time past, in the hands of the men. The demand for the season's supply of nails was about over, but the management was ready any time to resume if the men gave the word.

Another Unloaded Shotgun Gets in Its Work.

NORFOLK, VA., November 24.—Miss Annie Dickson, aged sixteen, was shot and instantly killed by her betrothed, Thomas Moses, aged twenty, Sunday night, at the residence of her father in Atlantic, a suburb of this city. The shooting was purely accidental. Young Moses took hold of Mr. Dickson's shotgun, which was thought to be unloaded. He said to Miss Dickson:

"I will go through the military drill for you."

As he was carrying the gun to his shoulder it exploded, the charge entering the young girl's neck. She died almost instantly in the arms of her lover. Young Moses is almost frantic with grief.

The Panic in the Oil Market.

PITTSBURGH, PA., November 24.—No such scenes as those of yesterday were ever witnessed in oil circles since the occasion of the opening of the famous Cherry Grove field. The market opened at 99 cents and in less than half an hour under heavy selling of Craig and Lowry declined to 93 1-2 cents, during which the wildest excitement prevailed. Just before the close it further declined to 90 cents, at which point Craig turned buyer and his deals alone prevented a disastrous drop into the eighties. No failures were announced, but it is positively known that some of the heaviest firms here are badly crippled, and it is expected that some of them will be numbered among the lay-downs to-day

Acknowledged the Assault.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., November 24.—James Bradley, a young colored man employed at Marquett's Eating Saloon, was given a hearing yesterday afternoon at the Central Station, charged with attempt to commit a felonious assault on Ellen Gallagher, ten years old, residing at 3108 Market street. The child recognized Bradley as her assailant, and the prisoner acknowledged the assault. He was committed without bail to answer to the Court.

A Satisfactory Decrease in Small-Pox.

MONTREAL, CAN. November 24.—The continued decrease in the death rate from small-pox is very satisfactory. During the last four weeks the weekly mortality has fallen from 273 to 208, 173 and 110. On Saturday the deaths in the city were nine, and in the suburbs ten. On Sunday the figures were eight and four. Every case is known to the authorities, and is either isolated or in the hospital. There is a large surplus of hospital accommodation.

Horrible Death of Two Drunken Men.

DUBOIS, PA., November 24.—Sunday night, at about midnight, three men, Jas. McGranor, Campbell and Billy Pipers, were lying in a drunken stupor in a shanty at Sabula. One of the men rose, and, in some manner, knocked over the lamp. The shanty was soon in flames. Pipers escaped, but the other two were burned to death. McGranor's remains were placed in a dry goods box and sent to his home at Winterburn. Campbell, who is a veteran, will be buried by the county.

Webble Taken Home

David Webble, the crazy machinist from St Louis, who caused a sensation in Decatur Sunday by going from house to house trying to find a friend to relieve him of $517 85, started for his home at Pittsfield this morning His brother came after him Webble seemed to be all right when he left the jail, and talked like a sane man. He took his money with him. Rest will do him good It was learned to day that Webble Sunday afternoon entered the United Brethren Sabbath school and appeared to be surprised when he got near the pulpit and heard the children singing He was quite nervous He seemed to realize that he was in the wrong pew and he quickly walked down the aisle and out of the church without speaking to anyone

The Home Dead-Lock

The Chicago Tribune of to day contained the following of local interest

When the Soldiers' Home Commission adjourned yesterday afternoon after two sessions, the location of the Home was no nearer settled than when the Commission took its first ballot in Springfield two months ago. The competing towns are generally represented by the same delegations here during the first Chicago meetings. What there is for them to do in view of the deadlock is not apparent

It may be safe to predict that the Home will eventually be located in Illinois, but at what point no one appears to be able at this time to foretell

How Rose Eytinge Dies

In the play of "Niagara' to be given Friday night amusement goers will have an opportunity of seeing Rose Eytinge, the celebrated emotional actress Said the St Louis Post Dispatch critic

I saw another illustration of how to die last night Rose Eytinge gave it in Niagara the Adventuress It was a very different death from that of Mme Modjeska in Prince Zillah or in Camille or in fact from the deaths to be seen in any of the emotional plays It was the self inflicted death of a revengeful adventuress who has been foiled in her plans Rose Eytinge treats her death scene artistically She is a woman of fine physical attributes with wonderful reserved force calm dignified reposeful and strong She does not rant there is not the slightest suggestion of strain or of attempt to create artificial effect The entire character of Niagara is treated in this way and hence with disappointment at first from lack of expected outbursts the character grows on one and its details but firmly drawn out lines stand out in bold relief at the close of the play and in one s memory without a single overreaching word or act to detract from its effectiveness Miss Eytinge never loses her control of herself under any circumstances in disappointment in grief or in death She is the woman who has defied the world and although she has been crushed she has not been conquered When the dead body of her father is brought before her and she thinks it is the body of an enemy the change from exultation to suspicion and then to despair is an admirable illustration of quiet intensity as a strong element of dramatic art When the face of her dead father is disclosed to view there is no raving only a heart piercing shriek and a faint There s no prolonged struggle at her death Calmly defiant to the end when the poison does its work she falls and all is over

Postmaster Lytle and B O McReynolds cashier of the National Bank, left yesterday afternoon for Lewiston, Idaho, where they will appear as witnesses against Hibbs, the defaulting postmaster at that place who was caught and jailed by the government officials The gentlemen will have to travel five days before they reach Lewiston Hibbs was a schemer and operated in a round about way He had full charge of the Lewiston office for several years and sent money orders to banks in cities in different parts of the country and then had the cash taken out of the postoffice and placed to his credit in the bank After a while he would draw on the bank for the amount to his credit, and he would have the cash That is the way he worked the dodge on the Decatur office The papers and numbers were all apparently straight, and the fraud was not detected until inquiries reached Washington, when of course the scheme was exposed, and Hibbs took flight with the product of his thievery He will get a long term in prison

Father, Mother, and Three Sisters Dead

Mr David Claypool, formerly Sergeant-at-Arms of the New Jersey Senate, and now Notary Public at Cedarville, Cumberland Co, N J, makes the following startling statement "My father, mother, and three sisters all died with consumption, and my lungs were so weak I raised blood Nobody thought I could live My work (shipsmithing) was very straining on me with my weak constitution, and I was rapidly going to the grave While in this condition I commenced using Mishler's Herb Bitters, and it saved my life Because it was so difficult to get it in this little place, and I had improved so much I stopped taking it for a time, and the result is that I have commenced going rapidly down hill again Somehow, Mishler's Herb Bitters gives appetite and strengthens and builds me up as nothing else does, and I must have a dozen bottles at once Use this communication as you please, and if any one wants to be convinced of its truth let them write me and I will make affidavit to it, for I owe my life to Mishler's Herb Bitters"

The secret of the almost invariable relief and cure of consumption dysentery, diarrhœa, dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney and liver complaints, when Mishler's Herb Bitters is used, is that it contains simple, harmless, and yet powerful ingredients, that act on the blood kidneys, and liver, and through them strengthens and invigorates the whole system Purely vegetable in its composition, prepared by a regular physician, a standard medicinal preparation, endorsed by physicians and druggists These are four strong points in favor of Mishler's Herb Bitters Mishler's Herb Bitters is sold by all druggists Price $1 00 per large bottle 6 bottles for $5 00

FIREMEN'S HATS.

Belts and Trumpets—More Volunteer Companies Than Formerly—Interesting Points.

"With all the changes in the styles of hats the old regulation fireman's hat holds its own," said one of the oldest dealers in firemen's equipments in the city to a reporter The place was a little store on a down town cross street, and the dealer was found busily at work attaching small red leather letters to strips of white leather by means of glue.

"The regulation fireman's hat today is the same shape as it was long before we began business, and that is twenty-five years ago," he added "They are lighter weight, but that is the only difference We make them usually of black, but there are fire companies who prefer colored ones, and we have made them in all colors Just now we are filling an order for a lot in a bluish gray color The chief part of a fireman's hat is made of oak tanned sole leather, fastened to a framework of strong wire"

"What are the prices?" was asked

"The usual price is from $4 50 to $5 each, but I have made fancy ones for presentation purposes that cost as high as $75. You may think it a little strange, but we send a good many of them to South America Another fact that may interest the public is that Cuba has the largest fire company in the world Why, we have made over two thousand equipments for Cuba and Havana. The reason this company is the largest known is because the whole fire department there is called one company It is known as Bomberos del Comercio No 1 The hat is black and the front shield is the same on which are the letters in red giving the name of the company These letters are all cut by hand There are very few manufacturers of this kind of goods in the country and only three or four in this city But there are many supplying agents who travel about the country taking orders for anything a fire company needs"

"But don't you make any of the hats of a shape different from the regulation pattern?"

"Oh yes, a good many Some of the companies wanting to be peculiar have ordered some of helmet shape like policemen's hats But the style doesn't last for, after wearing them a short time the companies usually come back and want the regulation shape By regulation we mean the hat used by both paid and volunteer departments It has four large cones and between these four smaller ones For service no better hat is made and on parade they are the most becoming to firemen Care is always taken to have sufficient ventilation without marring the strength of the hat For officers and presentations we frequently make them with fancy embossed rim and gold leather fronts on which is painted a steamer, hose cart age, or truck In these fancy hats the peculiarity is in the great number of cones For instance the Piro Chicago Tournament' hat had 16 cones, and one that we had at the Centennial had 320 cones, the largest number ever known to have been put in a single hat

"The fact is," added the speaker, "that the companies having the best equipments and who take most pride in their work are the volunteer companies As for the volunteer organizations decreasing in number, as is generally supposed, the contrary is the case There are more volunteer companies in existence now than formerly Take it in the towns close to New York Each one has volunteer fire companies and they are composed of young business men in some of the largest houses of this city They make a sort of social club of their company as well and at the same time are exempt from any jury duty"

"What do belts cost?"

"Ordinary ones come at $1 50 to $2. But I have prize ones for as high as $30 and $40 A new thing in the fireman's trumpet line is one twelve inches high that will throw the voice as far as any of a larger size is more convenient to handle, and can be carried in the overcoat pocket It first was introduced by the Auburn Fire Department A trumpet double plated in silver with bell and mouth-piece, gilt, and twenty inches high costs from $20 to $35.—*N Y. How the Czar Alexander II Punished His Traducer

A young poet had written a most scurrilous poem in which he had described and libeled not only the Empress but also all the Grand Dukes and Duchesses Some one, the censor of the press, went and told the Empress "The man had better be sent off to Siberia at once" he said, "it is not a case for delay"

"Oh no" said the Empress "wait a little but tell the man I desire to see him at six o'clock to morrow evening" When the poor man was told this he felt as if his last hour was come, and that the Emperor must intend himself to pronounce a sentence of eternal exile. He went to the palace, and was shown through all the grand state rooms, one after another, without seeing any one, till at last he arrived at a small, common-place room at the end of them all, where there was a single table with a lamp upon it, and there he saw the Empress, the Emperor and all the Grand Dukes and Duchesses whom he had mentioned in his poem.

"How do you do, sir?" said the Emperor "I hear you have written a most beautiful poem, and I have sent for you that you read it aloud to us yourself, and I have invited all the Grand Dukes and Duchesses to come, that they may have the pleasure of hearing you"

Then the poor man prostrated himself at the Emperor's feet "Send me to Siberia, sire," he said, "force me to become a soldier, only do not compel me to read that poem"

"Oh, sir, you are cruel to refuse me the pleasure, but you will not be so ungallant as to refuse the Empress the pleasure of hearing your verses, and she will ask you herself"

And the Empress asked him.

When he had finished she said: "I do not think he will write any more verses about us again. He need not go to Siberia just yet."—Studies in Russia.

Tired and Languid Women.

How many women there are of whom these words are true "They feel languid and tired, hardly able to bear their weight on their feet, the bloom all gone from their cheeks, irritable and cross without meaning to be, nerves all upset, worried with the children, fretted over little things, a burden to themselves, and yet with no acute disease" What a pity it is. But a few bottles of Parker's Tonic will drive all this away, and relieve the the troubles peculiar to their sex Nov 1 deod&w1m

THOUSANDS of spurious testimonials each year are thrown upon the market to aid the sale of more or less worthless nostrums striving for public recognition, while lacking the essential of real merit It is the pride of the manufacturers of Mishler's Herb Bitters that among the tens of thousands of testimonials to the merits of this great household remedy, not one can be shown that is not genuine and bona fide A large number of people to day are living witnesses of its efficacy in dyspepsia, kidney and liver troubles, indigestion, rheumatism, and other ailments Physicians prescribe Mishler's Herb Bitters in their daily practice
